The Evolution of Chiropractic: Its Discovery and Development. By A. Aug. Dye, D.C. (Palmer Graduate 1912). First edition. 1939. Published by A. Aug. Dye, D.C. in Philadelphia, PA. 343 pages. 6.5" x 9.25". Rare in scarce, edge torn and lightly soiled dustjacket. Bound in maroon cloth with clear gilt lettering on spine and cover. Pages exceptionally clean, bright and tight. From the Forward, dated July 1938, "The story of Chiropractic... as an Art, Science and Philosophy, since its discovery by Daniel David Palmer...1895...to its present position...". Dye worked with Palmer and was allowed access to his papers to insure accuracy. An excellent and thorough first Chiropractic history; defining it, detailing controversies, important pioneers, the school and establishments, medicine vs chiropractic, straight vs mixer, equipment, spinal analysis, treatment, adjustment, effects and more. Wrapped, padded and boxed. Insured in USA. Satisfaction guaranteed!
