

[Read free ebook] The Old Lady on Harrison Street (International Healthcare Ethics)

The Old Lady on Harrison Street (International Healthcare Ethics)

From Brand: Peter Lang Publishing
audiobook | *ebooks | Download PDF | ePub | DOC

Download

Read Online

#3521527 in Books Peter Lang Publishing 1997-10
Ingredients: Example Ingredients
Original language: English
PDF # 1 9.50 x 6.75 x 1.25l, #File Name: 0820434612455 pages | File size: 57.Mb

From Brand: Peter Lang Publishing : The Old Lady on Harrison Street (International Healthcare Ethics)
before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Old Lady on Harrison Street (International Healthcare Ethics):

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. great read
By Michael J. McKenna
Great read. Recommend to anyone who's ever worked at county or is interested in the history of government provided healthcare.
8 of 8 people found the following review helpful. History of Cook County Hospital
By A Customer
This is the only historical book you'll find on Cook County Hospital. It provides complete details of information on how the hospital started, why, when, and who. Although, most historical books can be boring, this book is written in a way to capture your interest. The writer makes you feel proud of a hospital that has been given so much disapproval from the public who doesn't realize how the poor rely on the hospital for care. His stories on the pioneering of medical science is very interesting and easy to understand. How lucky is Chicago to have a facility like the Cook County Hospital!

This is the story of a great hospital, from its origin as a poorhouse to modern times. It chronicles the social problems, and political chicanery, as interns, physicians, and nurses struggle to care for the sick poor of Chicago. Since its founding, Cook County Hospital has been a center for medical education and research and has always been renowned for its work in trauma and diseases which afflict the poor and downtrodden.

At last Chicagoans get to learn the story of 'Old Lady of Harrison Street', the incomparable Cook County Hospital. And what a tale, full of humans caring for humans amid politics, and squalor and more hope and daring than any TV hospital show could ever think of dreaming up. (Kenan Heise) All libraries should acquire a copy. (F. Gonzalez-Crussi, The Child's Doctor) People with any experience of the Old Lady will enjoy and profit from this affectionate look at her history. (H. Wayne Morgan, Journal of Illinois History)

About the Author
The Editor: John G. Raffensperger was an intern, resident, and attending surgeon at Cook County Hospital from 1953 to 1970. He is Professor of Surgery at Northwestern University and a pediatric surgeon at Children's Memorial Hospital in Chicago, where he has served as Division Head of Pediatric Surgery and then Surgeon-in-Chief.